FRANCE SAYS GERMANY IS PREPARING FOR A WAR OF REVENGE; FURNISHES PROOF OF BIG MILITARY PREPARATION

Paris, Dec. 13. (United Press.)—In the minds of French military men, Germany is preparing for a war of revenge. Marshal Foch has officially pointed out the danger to the Comore of Ambassadors. It has been actually decided that the work of the International Control Mission, which is based in the Franco-Belgian occupation of the Ruhr last January, will be resumed, at least partially, this month, in centers where the Berlin government may be able to accord protection to the allied officers.

What is the exact status of the German military machine, which the treaty of Versailles limited to seven divisions of infantry and three of cavalry comprising a total of 95,255 officers and men, in addition to the staffs of the army corps and the artillery, the total not to exceed 100,000 effective?

Says Army Is Strong.
Colonel Rebol, who, previous to his retirement from the army, served on the International Control Mission in Germany and the countries bordering on Russia and is in close touch with the high army circles here, has just declared that the German army is as strong numerically as it was before the war. In an article in the Temps, he traces the organization of the Control Mission, which was followed by the Orgesch, which in turn was replaced by various military forces, ostensibly volunteer corps, but providing an efficient system of training for millions of young Germans. Before the war Germany had 21 army corps, each with its general staff and comprising two divisions. Colonel Rebol points out that the seven infantry divisions comprising the Reichswehr or regular German army, are so distributed and organized that they cover exactly the same territory as the pre-war corps and are capable of being immediately split up into 21 army corps, or 42 divisions. The German division, according to the treaty of Versailles, consists of 410 officers and 10,380 men. Thus, while complying with the letter of the treaty, Germany would be able to put into the field half a million infantry without calling on the reserves.

Has 21 Trained Staffs.

The treaty permits the establishment of only three general staffs of army corps, two for the infantry, one for the cavalry. Colonel Rebol holds that there are actually 21 trained staffs. Moreover, Germany, in view of the next conflict, according to this expert, is building up:

1. A railroad system especially adapted to the strategic transport of troops.
 2. A mobilization machine similar to the pre-war organization.
 3. A war industry capable of manufacturing in a minimum period of time all material needed for a prolonged campaign.
- According to the treaty, the armaments allowed for the seven divisions comprises 84,000 rifles, 18,000 carbines, 1,926 machine guns, 252 minenwerfer, 204 field-guns, calibre 77, and 84 howitzers of 105. In contrast with this, Colonel Rebol recalls that during the functioning of the Control Mission the allied officers found in the factories at Munster 400,000 rifles, 77,000 rifle barrels, 4,000 barrels of anti-tank guns, and in the factories at Roekstrah 348 howitzer tubes, 245 similar tubes in construction, two hundred pieces of steel, evidently intended for the manufacture of howitzers, besides five machines for rifling big guns. Marshal Foch has declared that since the occupation of the Ruhr, when the work of the control mission was interrupted, this war construction has moved ahead at an enormous rate.

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 13.—In spite of the revenue loss of $600,000 last year from liquor licenses under the Brooks law, repealed by passage of the Prohibition law, collections of the auditor general increased $1,616,833.23 over the 1922 period, it was announced today.

The comparative statement of returns from all counties shows $18,840,705.91 collected in 1923 and $17,224,072.68 collected in 1922 from mercantile, liquor and hunter's licenses and inheritance tax. Last year $292,445.43 was received from liquor licenses compared with $957,122.55 in 1922.

KLAN SLAYER BOUGHT DIRK

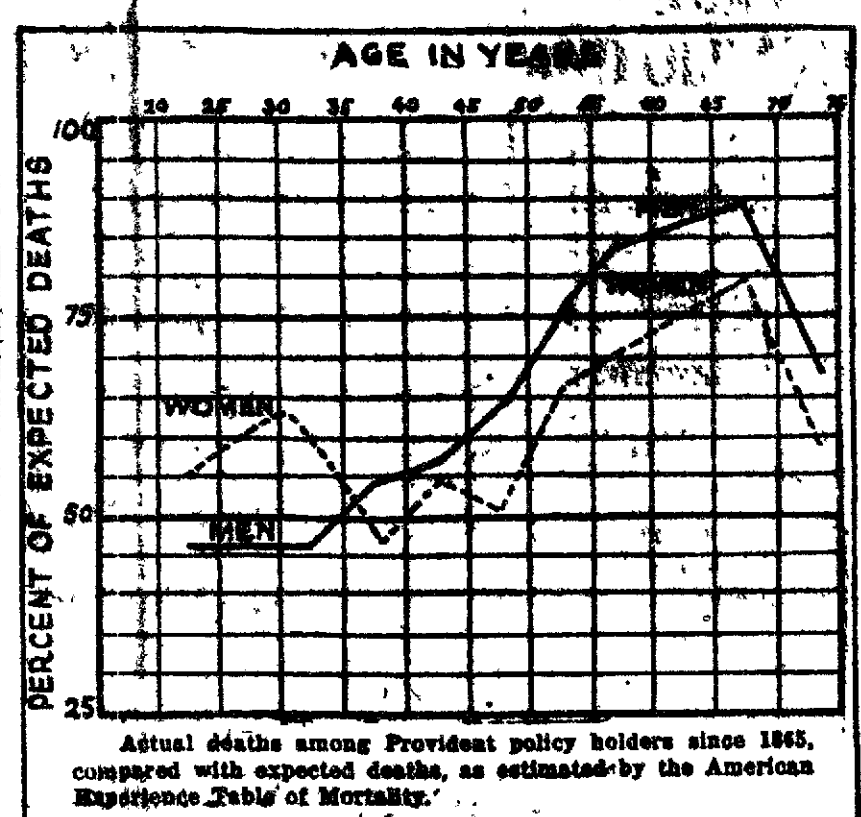

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 17.—Clarence A. Everett, the first witness called in the trial of Phil E. Fox, Publicity Director of the Ku Klux Klan, charged with the murder of W. C. Coker, Attorney, told of selling a long dirk knife to the accused man. Everett is a clerk in a sporting goods store.

member of the Legion Band, and made an attack upon him, whereupon he swung his strong right arm in self defense and Jim went down. He landed a punch or two on his prostrate foe for good measure and then proceeded about his business. Lombardo is being prosecuted by A. H. Woodward, Esq., while Cortes, Esq., is defending Lombardo.

WHITE WOMAN SUBMITS TO GRAFTING OPERATION TO RESTORE HEALTH TO A LITTLE COLORED GIRL FOR CHRISTMAS

Philadelphia, Dec. 13.—Because of her love for children, Mrs. Howard Barrett, 24, a white woman, has sacrificed five pieces of her skin, each as large as a silver dollar, in order to patch up the burned body of Essie Hopkins, four-year-old negro. As a result of the operation she was performed at the Clearfield Hospital at 9:30 o'clock this morning. She is survived by her widow and nine children. The funeral will be held at New Millport on Sunday afternoon.

CHANCES OF DEATH GREATER FOR YOUNG WOMEN AND OLD MEN

Up to the age of 37 the chances of death are greater for the average woman than for the average man, according to actual statistics. After that the death expectancy for the man is greater.

Albert Linton, vice president of the Provident Mutual Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia, made the above statements on the basis of the mortality experience of the company since 1905.

But, on the average, women live longer than men. According to the last United States census, the average span of life for the entire population in the United States is about 55 years for men and 57 years for women. The figures for both sexes show that the span of life is longer in the rural districts than in the metropolitan areas.

Mr. Linton pointed out, however, that the conclusion must not be drawn that as our city population increases the period of life shortens. There are so many powerful counteracting factors that the life expectancy of the young men of today is fully ten years greater than that of the passing generation.

The span of life has already been lengthened about four years so far during this century, as the 1900 United States Census figures covering all deaths over fifteen years show an average of death at 53 years.

Maternal mortality is given as the chief cause for the greater chance of death of women between the ages of 20 and 37. Better habits and less exposure to accidents and to the worry and strain of business are said to be the reasons for women having a greater average lifetime and these influences are especially effective after women pass middle age and are free from the hazards of maternity.

PLAIN GOSPEL THE SECRET OF SUCCESS OF REV. POULSON

How to reach the masses with the gospel has been the outstanding problem of most churches for years. Great, scholarly sermons will not do it; the finest paid quartets help just a little; plenty of publicity does not solve the whole problem. Any church may have all these and still the masses go on to predilection, unrepentant.

But the West Side Methodist congregation is trying an experiment that is proving wonderfully successful in reaching the masses. Though last night was prayer meeting night in the churches of the city, yet the tabernacle was filled as usual with an eager and responsive congregation.

What is the secret of these great gatherings from night to night? Nothing more than the attractive story of Redemption, told in an appealing way. No fancy singing—just simple gospel music; no clap-trap or sensational methods—just honest gospel preaching; and no "wild-fire radicalism"—just the tried and proven methods of the church for generations past.

The secret was greatly changed things. And it did in a great many cases. But when it comes to getting a sinner to come out positively for salvation the "old paths" are still the best and safest to take. Evangelist Poulson's theme last night was "The American Home." He defined the "spirit of America," so quick to answer when suffering calls—as nothing more than the spirit of Christ. In a pleasing way he pointed out the old Scotchman's remedy for "all domestic ills," told in verse form how to handle the "bad boy" problem; and pointed out some of the devilish things that will kill love in the home. A very successful altar service followed. The theme tonight is "The Perfect Life" and tomorrow evening Evangelist Poulson will speak on "The Unpardonable Sin."

Construction Foreman On Atlantic Gas Station Sleeping Sickness Victim

Bernard Brusman, aged 36, of Philadelphia, who came to Clearfield last October to superintend the construction of the Atlantic Refining Company's new gas and oil service station at the intersection of South First and South Second streets, passed away at the Rowles hospital on Pine street on Tuesday afternoon, December 11, about 1 o'clock.

The deceased had been suffering from a cold and tonsillitis for several days at his boarding house on Fifth street and on Wednesday of last week, when he took a turn for the worse, was removed to the Rowles hospital.

Brusman shortly became unconscious and remained in a comatose condition until the end came. Dr. Rowles said he was as sleeping sickness.

On Tuesday morning he began to sink and failed rapidly from that time until the end.

Mr. Brusman was a capable man and a valued employee of the Atlantic Refining Company. He was a clear-cut fellow and made a number of friends during his stay in Clearfield.

His remains were prepared for burial and were shipped yesterday to Philadelphia for interment.

BOROUGH OFFICIALS GUESTS OF ROTARY; TALK CIVIC AFFAIRS

The meeting of the Rotary Club held at Jordan's last evening was in charge of Chairman Allen Pearce of the Public Affairs Committee, who had as his guests a number of the newly-elected members of Council, the object of the committee being to assure the new Council of the hearty support and co-operation of the Rotary Club in the administration of borough affairs.

President of Council George M. Rogers and City Engineer E. W. Hess both outlined briefly what Council had been doing, but said they could not say what the program for the coming year would be because that would not be determined or decided upon until the new Council was organized and got down to mapping out its work for the year.

Prof. Grant Norris, superintendent of schools at Curwensville, was introduced by his friend Judge Singleton Bell and gave a highly entertaining fifteen minute talk in which he asked Rotary to get behind the movement looking to the permanent improvement of the borough.

ROWLES CAMP GETS A FINE SPECIMEN OF BIG BULL ELK

Is the First to Be Killed in Clearfield County; Many More Camps Report Deer Limit Slain.

BROUGHT IN TODAY

The first elk to be brought into Clearfield was among the trophies gathered by the Rowles camp, which is located in the Caledonia pine country at the head of Trout Run. The Rowles outfit, from Olonta, and all experienced hunters, had a huge bull elk weighing 800 pounds and carrying a spread of antlers more than three feet across and almost as long. This big fellow was shot by Maxwood Rowles on Saunders Run about 16 miles from Clearfield on Wednesday of last week.

The Rowles boys also brought two fine bucks in with them while the Rowles told the seven men who chased a band of seven all afternoon Friday last trying to get a buck at the head of the head, an enormous old bull. He also said that on Friday last a bull elk which weighed 1,000 pounds walked right up to the corner of Allen Wallace's new log camp on Allen's branch of Trout Run, where a crew from Tyler was hunting.

One of the hunters happened to be in the camp at the time and securing his rifle he opened the door and with one shot laid the enormous elk at his feet.

The Rowles crew got their elk on Monday and a half distant from the camp and it took their entire crew of nine men five hours to get the kill to camp.

The Irons camp at the old Peter McGeorge field, on Allen's branch got their sixth deer this morning and broke camp today. They are the first to come in that region to get the limit of six this season.

While coming in from a hunting trip at the head of Stone Run this morning, Prof. O. W. Schaeffer of Susquehanna College of Music saw a spotted buck lying along the road near the Pilech Pine dist. Several other hunters happened along about this time and they examined the dead buck. They found he had been dead four or five days and as his "spots" were about one-fourth inch short of the required six inches, it is thought the fellow who shot it let it lie where it fell when he found it was an illegal deer. The meat was unfit for use when found.

SURPRISE PARTY

About 20 neighbors and friends dropped in last evening and surprised Mr. and Mrs. William Adams on W. Sixth avenue by celebrating their birthday, both being the same day.

At a late hour appetizing refreshments were served and all left for their homes, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Adams many more happy birthdays.

CRIMINAL COURT IS RAPIDLY DISPOSING OF DECEMBER LIST

Criminal court is continuing its daily grind, attempting to get to the bottom of the December term trial list. Three cases have been disposed of since our Tuesday's report.

David Dixon, of Boggs township, was convicted of f. and b., while Merrill Thomas, of Mountandale, Cambria county, was found guilty of the charge of statutory rape and f. and b. by the jury, which heard the evidence in his case. The prosecuting witness was from Smoke Run.

Robert Daniels, a colored individual, who attacked a fellow workman at the Woodland brickyard several weeks ago, was convicted of aggravated assault and battery yesterday afternoon after a trial which lasted but one hour and twenty minutes.

The case of Com. vs. Vincenzo Lombardo was placed on trial this morning. This case is from East End and the prosecutor is Jim Lombardo (no relation) who alleges that on the night of July 31st last the other Lombardo lay in wait for him at the corner of Daisy and Ninth streets and when he came along on his way to his home on Bigler avenue, Vincenzo jumped onto him, pulled a gun from his pocket and after threatening to shoot him, knocked him down and beat him up.

In his defense Vincenzo alleges he followed him down street, as he was going to his home after attending band practice, he being a Bell, Esq., is defending Lombardo.

RELY ON U. S. BANKS TO FINANCE ALBANIA

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
Geneva. (By mail to United Press.)
— Organizer and sponsor for national banks of issue for European states with tottering finances has become the new role of the League of Nations.

Following the successful organization and launching under League auspices of the new Austrian bank of issue, which is rapidly putting Austria on a sound basis, and the selection of plans for similar banks under League control for the financial rehabilitation of Hungary, Albania has just applied to the League for control and help in the launching of a national bank of issue.

With the organization of the latter under League supervision, Albania will at last take its place amongst the nations of the world with a currency of its own, a budget and a financial system on a thoroughly sound basis. Albania, which has been on the map politically, as a nation, it has not yet been there financially. The new Albanian bank will make up this deficiency.

The preliminary draft for the Albanian bank of issue provides for a capital of 5,000,000 gold francs all of which must be paid in before the bank can begin issuing currency.

The bank is also destined to act as a clearing house for the Albanian government with a limit of credit to the Albanian government of 2,000,000 gold francs redeemable out of the revenues of the current fiscal year in the course of which the credits have been contracted.

On the basis of the draft project, as drawn up, the League has authorized its financial advisor to the Albanian government to begin negotiations with the leading banking groups of the United States towards raising the capital necessary for the new Albanian bank of issue.

MAY AN AUDIENCE WHISTLE?

Question That Has Stirred Up an Acrimonious Controversy Among French Theatrical People.

Quite a controversy rages here as to the various means employed by audiences in applauding or disapproving plays and actors, says a Paris correspondent of the New York Herald. Till now handclapping or the banging of feet or canes on the floor was the usually only recognized way of showing approval or pleasure.

The whistling habit introduced in France by American doughboys never took. As a matter of fact there were occasions during the war or immediately after when American soldiers came dangerously near to provoking a riot in various theaters by whistling continually. It took a considerable amount of persuasion to convince French audiences that whistling was the American way of applauding.

The question as to whether whistling is to be tolerated in French theaters arises following recent incidents in such a staid establishment as the Comedie Francaise. While the majority of spectators were enthusiastically clapping hands and banging their feet, whistling began in the upper part of the house. The surprise caused rapidly gave way to fear, fear that this was a form of showing the outlookers' disapproval. Police in the establishment soon began to muster around the whistlers. It was then discovered that most of these had merely introduced American methods, while others, dissatisfied with the show and thinking that the whistling was meant as adverse criticism, eagerly joined in. The result was that the police had to keep close to these people and threaten to arrest any one whistling.

The matter has been brought to the notice of the Theatrical association, and even now several managers suggest framing a new by-law in the theatrical statutes making whistling in any form or for any purpose punishable by law and the immediate removal of culprits from the theaters.

SEES RETURN OF THE HORSE

Col. Charles Francis Bate, U. S. A., retired cavalryman, who lives in Yonkers, says the New York Times, discussing the extension of highway paths and the construction of highways for riding in Westchester county, says:

"The automobile has superseded the horse in the commercial world, still the horse must come back because he is needed. Business men cannot derive the recreation and pleasure by motoring. After a long riding, the most assured method of recuperation of the tired business man."

"It is hoped and believed that if wealth will endow rest camps every fifteen miles for horse and bicycle, it will eliminate prohibitive expenses."

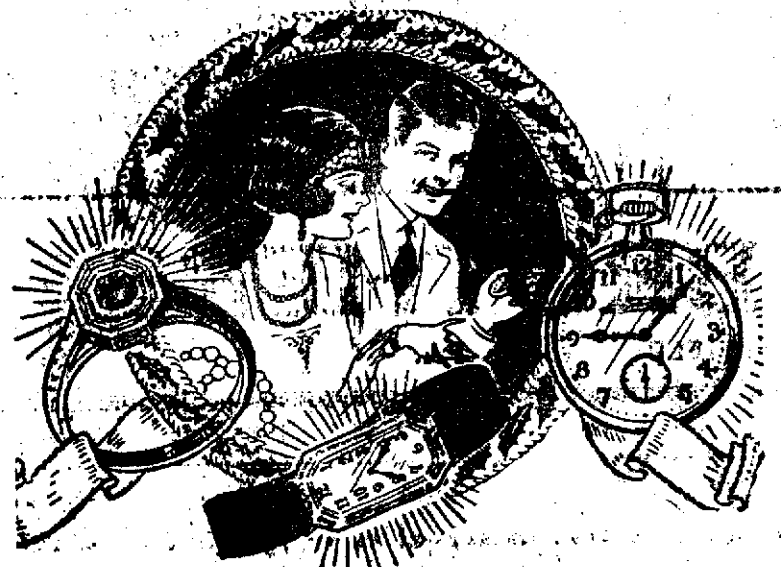

Westchester county, with its beautiful hills and valleys, is an ideal section for the development of these rest camps. With the completion of the bridge path along the Bronx river, parkway from Two Hundredth street and Bronx park there will be created for horsemen a splendid reservation with access from New York city to the foothills of the Adirondacks. This proposed reservation is made possible by the courtesy of Westchester estate holders, who permit horseback riding through their places.

George Ade on Women.

Women of high voltage are especially keen as "arrangers." The married woman decides that Herbert, her husband's bachelor friend (with the false eyebrows), is just the man for Ella, a holdover from the puff sleeve period. So she invites the two scape-hardened "waiters out" for the week-end and issues secret orders that whenever Herb and Ella can be assembled together on one settee, then all the others are to run away and leave them. And yet you may have read in a book somewhere that woman is man's best friend.—From "Single Blessedness," by George Ade.

Progress Editorial For Women

HER OWN WAY
By FLORENCE DAVIES

A certain popular actress announced the other day that she wasn't ever going to get married.

She was perfectly frank as to the reason.

"If I got married," said Miss Lenore Ulrich, "I couldn't have my own way all the time, or if I did, there would probably be trouble, and I insist upon having my own way."

That being the case, we all feel like congratulating Miss Ulrich upon her good judgment. Marriages founded on one person's way were never known to turn out to be 100 per cent happy affairs.

But one can't help wondering if Miss Ulrich imagines that by keeping steadfastly out of the entangling alliance of matrimony she is going to succeed in having her own way all her life.

If only matters were as simple as that.

Husbands, it is true, have been known to interfere with the pursuit of interrupted selfishness, but there's a force in life which hasn't anything to do with husbands which is bound to keep us all from doing just what we want to do now and then.

No one can travel very far on the road to happiness unless he learns the gentle art of accepting disappointment. Life never guarantees its prize packages. Some times we draw one, but the next draw may be a blank.

And that goes for petulant, beautiful actresses and millionaires' wives and society ladies, just as it goes for the poor working girl and the old maid. It goes for just about every one, prince and pauper alike.

Life, to be successful and hence happy, is pretty much a matter of doing the thing which has to be done. And that can't always mean doing the thing that you want to do. It may be someone else who tells you what to do, or it may even be yourself who gives the orders, but the orders have to be obeyed. The fact that you happen to hand them out yourself, doesn't make it any less a matter of discipline.

People who try to have their own way in spite of everything, who think they can buy or bully their way through life, with force or money or sheer stubbornness, usually find themselves sooner or later right up against a stone wall.

No, having one's own way in life isn't down on the cards. It can't be done. But there's a bigger thing than that.—It is learning not to have your own way and beating the game just the same.

Every woman who has ever lived deeply, which is just about the same as saying, every woman who has ever suffered, knows that selfishness and smooth sailing don't spell progress.

She knows that the very barriers in the way have sometimes been the turning points toward a greater success and a deeper happiness than were ever given to any spoiled child who knows nothing but the fun of having what she wants.

good as we and our neighbors have a right to demand. I think we shall find that these facts point to defects in our machinery of government rather than our national character.

But those who make the charge of unwarranted self-assertion seem to me to be able to prove their allegation and to be rendering our nation a real service in calling timely attention to a distinctive fault in American character which, if allowed to develop unchecked, may prove as disastrous to us as a somewhat different manifestation of the same fault has already proved to Germany.

The Jails in Which Thousands Get Their First Experience as Prisoners

By DR. HASTINGS P. HART, in Moral Welfare.

The jails contain prisoners convicted of crime, prisoners accused of crime, witnesses accused of no crime but held for the convenience of the state, insane persons, and in some states, debtors.

Village lockups are as a rule filthy, infested with vermin, and unfit for use. City police stations are often no better. Yet it is in these prisons that thousands of people get their first experience as prisoners. Such imprisonment involves a degradation which affects the entire after-life.

In every jail there are found some prisoners who are not hardened in crime, but who desire to reform, but they are forced into association with the vilest criminals, who ridicule their penitence, exert themselves for their corruption, and blackmail them after their discharge. Yet no man cares for their souls.

When an individual who is not vicious is arrested, he should have the help of a wise and interested group of Christian people.

Persistent Fight Against the Scrub Cow on the Farms of America

By FRANK O. LOWDEN, Former Governor of Illinois.

The average milk production for the entire United States is something like half the average production of the cows of the most advanced dairy countries in Europe. This would be inexplicable were it not for the fact that less than 3 per cent of the dairy cows of America are pure bred. The field for improvement, therefore, is vast; and the opportunity for useful service is stimulating in the extreme.

It is the pure-breed dairy associations that are making the most persistent and effective fight against the scrub cow, which still remains in overwhelming numbers upon the farms of America. Calf clubs are being organized all over the country, composed of boys and girls, who become owners of one or more pure-bred or high-grade calves. Through activities of these calf clubs the dairy cattle of the community begin to improve.

In the second place the club tends to attach the boy or girl to the farm. The successful breeders and farmers of coming years will be those now enrolled as members of boys' and girls' clubs.

The Three Faults Most Commonly Charged Against Our National Character

By DR. A. T. HADLEY, in Current History Magazine.

The three faults most commonly charged against our national character today are materialism, lawlessness and unwarranted self-assertion. These three sets of charges are made with about equal frequency. When we come to examine the evidence by which they are supported we shall find that they stand upon very different bases.

Those who accuse us of materialism charge us with a fault that is common to the human race. They fail to prove that it is distinctively American or that we are worse than our neighbors in this respect. Those who accuse us of lawlessness can show that many of the things of which they complain are distinctively American and that our record is not so

CANAL TRAFFIC COSTLY

Chicago, Dec. 13. (United Press.)—Declaring that canal transportation, contrary to popular belief, is more costly than railroad transportation, H. G. Moulton, director of the Institute of Economics, of Washington, D. C., asserted in an address here that inland water routes can be maintained only by state or Federal Government subsidy. Moulton, speaking at an educational conference under the auspices of the National Transportation Institute, declared that the subsidy took the form of the Government's bearing all the expenses of building, equipping and maintaining the water routes.

Only very short canals which connect long stretches of naturally navigable waters can be profitable," said Moulton. "River transportation rarely is economical. Few of our streams can be used without constructing channels that cost more than would the building of a rail route."

Curwensville's Own Column

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McClennahan, of Pitsburg, Pa., are visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Smith, McNaull street.

James Humphreys has been making a tour of the houses in Curwensville this week, trying to ascertain who owns or has in his or her possession an automobile. The work is being done for the Bonsall & Holton automobile agency.

Ira Shafer, one of Curwensville's oldest and most highly respected citizens, met with an accident yesterday morning which came very nearly proving disastrous to him. He stirred up a fire in a stove when, poof, bang, there was an explosion that could be heard a block distant. His whiskers caught fire, as did also his hair and eyebrows. In trying to put out the flame on his whiskers, and he wears the longest bunch of any man in town, his hand was burned quite severely. The barber got a job trimming up his hair also. There was either powder in the coal or else gas had accumulated in a sufficient quantity to cause the explosion.

Word has been received from Rev. John Cameron, a former pastor of the Baptist Church here, and who built the church up wonderfully in membership and religious interest while here, that he has just concluded a wonderful revival in the church in his new home in Massachusetts. His many intimate friends are highly gratified to learn of his success, and still maintain their unalloyed allegiance to him.

A child of Clem Rougeux, residing over on Bloomington avenue, is afflicted by an attack of that much dreaded disease, diphtheria.

Word comes to Curwensville that John Flynn, who has been living in Clearfield for some years, moving from this place to the county seat, has sold his property in that town and will move back to Curwensville into a property owned by his family on north Walnut street. John is a good citizen and we welcome him back with open arms.

Robert Addelman left today for Jersey Shore and Lock Haven, where he will visit relatives until after the holiday season.

The Crescent Refractories Brick Company yesterday made the largest single shipment of brick at any one time during the year. A total of 95,000 bricks was loaded and shipped to their destinations.

Rudolph Berlin is looking for the fellows who removed his auto from his residence on Locust street and ran it down back of the Levi barn and stripped it of all tires and nearly everything else that could be taken off and carried away.

Si Richards, a son of the late Dallas Richards, is certainly having his share of bad luck. He has been confined to his home for the past ten weeks, first by an attack of typhoid fever and then by an attack of malarial fever. He has the sympathy of his many friends.

Tonight's program at the M. E. Church: Scripture reading, Miss Alice Moose; duet, Messrs. Byron McDowell and Kay Wrigley; address by a substitute for one who is away from home; reading by Kenneth Wall.

The following wedding notice is from a Huntingdon paper and refers to a former Curwensville boy, and a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Shafer, living on East George street.

"Word was received in Huntingdon of the marriage of Mr. Russell Peters and Miss Madeline Murphy, both of Sproul, in Altoona, a few days ago.

"Mrs. Peters is one of Sproul's popular young ladies and is well fitted for her new duties in life.

"Mr. Peters is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Peters, of Mount Union, and is well known in having played for several years with the Mount Union basketball team. Mr. Peters has been located in Sproul for the past year, having been sent to that place by the Harbison-Walker Company of Mount Union as a foreman.

"For the present Mrs. Peters will visit with Mr. Peters' parents and in the near future the young people will take up housekeeping.

"These young people have the best wishes of a host of friends."

Mrs. Irene Sterling and son J. Carl were shopping in DuBois yesterday.

Ambergris. Ambergris is a fatty secretion formed in some sperm whales. It is taken from whales directly but more often it is found floating in the water, especially in the waters of the tropics. It is also found cast up on beaches in lumps which sometimes exceed 200 pounds in weight. On exposure to the air it develops a sweet disagreeable odor. Ambergris has a high commercial value as a material used in the manufacture of perfumes, and the price is increasing due to the rarity of the sperm whale and the growing demand for the material.

The Grape Cure. The "grape cure" is practiced in Switzerland by persons who are troubled with gout or liver diseases. The time they spend among the grapes of Mt. Peterlin, above Vevey, or Bexles-Bains, seems to benefit and calm patients. The juicy white grape of Switzerland is most beneficial because of its easily digested skin.

Deepest Mine. The deepest mine in the world is in Brazil at St. John del Rey. It has attained a vertical depth of 6,726 feet. At that depth the temperature of the rock is 117 degrees Fahrenheit, necessitating a system of artificial cooling. The gold bearing ore at the bottom shows no signs of decreasing in volume.

Substitutes for Coffee. The following substitutes for coffee have been identified: Roasted peas, beans, wheat, rye, oats, chickery, brown bread, pilot bread, red slate, bark, dried pellets. The latter consists of ground peas, pea hulls and cereals held together with molasses.

most of Route No. 62, the road leading from Curwensville through Lumbertown to Burnside. He said this road would serve 30 farms abutting directly on some and that the business men of this section owed it to the good people of the area affected to get them this road. Mr. Morris spoke from the standpoint of an educator and said the section needed the road as an outlet or means of getting their children, all of substantial American stock, out to where they could get the advantage of a high school education.

Tom Gerber of the United Fruit was the guest of President Albert Stewart and he informed the Rotarians and their guests that The Clearfield Progress was about to install a news service the equal of and similar to that employed by the newspapers of Altoona, Harrisburg and other cities, which service will be installed and working by Christmas time.

Pleasant Social Evening

bert White, and A. P. Kreber. Under "remarks for good of the order," following the election of officers, B. I. Snyder, one of the charter members of Co. No. 1, and the oldest fireman in point of years in the department, addressed the boys briefly, but to the point. He opened by presenting the company with $25 to help pay current bills and then complimented the department highly on its efficiency and ability to do the work it sets out for itself. He then spoke of the numerous "drives" for different charities and other objects, but said he had never seen or heard of a "drive" for the firemen, and urged that the firemen put on a "drive" for the purpose of getting a motor vehicle. Bro. Snyder got a hearty hand from the big crowd present for his timely remarks.

Bro. F. Chase, another old-timer, but not quite in the class of Bro. Snyder as to age, followed with a good word for the boys with whom he has been associated for so many years. John M. Urey and Chas. Kreber also spoke briefly.

All hands then adjourned to the first floor, where the house committee had an appetizing lunch awaiting and soon were enjoying the fine spread as before them. When all had been satisfied, J. D. Connelly was impressed into service as toastmaster and remarks followed from H. G. Ogden, E. V. Brown, S. I. Snyder, Ben Chase, John Smith, W. J. Sackett, Howard White, A. P. Spangler, and E. V. Brown.

It was a highly enjoyable event.

Horace Liked Smudges. Park horses used in the Canadian survey party which mapped the land north of Athabasca Landing, Alberta, did not need to be taught what a smudge was for. The moment it was started they crowded up into the smoke to escape the tormenting flies. This made it easy to round them up for the next day's journey.

NEW GAS STATION
ADDS BEAUTY TO THE OLD POINT

The gas and oil service station, of the Atlantic Refining Company, located at "the Point," the intersection of South First and South Second streets, will be opened for business tomorrow. A crew of workmen are hustling hard today under the direction of Representative N. A. Carlson, of the Pittsburgh engineering department, and Local District Manager A. M. Gorman.

The new station is a beauty and one of the most modern and most conveniently arranged gas service stations in this section of the state. The same is advantageously located on the Lakes-to-the-Sea highway.

The new station will add much to the appearance of the end of town where it is located. The building was erected and the station installed in record breaking time, ground having been broken for same on October 18 last.

The plans for same were made by the W. G. Wilkins Co., of Pittsburgh, while the Philadelphia Mechanical Department directed the installation of the station.

The new station is equipped with four 1,000-gallon gas tanks placed in conformity with the state law governing such installation. The meter system instead of pumps is used to supply gas to customers, it being possible to serve a customer with fifteen gallons of gas per minute. Four grades of motor oil will be carried.

The building and all station equipment is both neat and artistic, and when in service, with its plentiful supply of electric lighting, makes a very pretty sight.

Few Poisonous Snakes. Of the several thousands of different species of snakes, only about one-third have poison glands. The bite of not more than 150 would cause death to man.

BETTER LIGHT LESS EXPENSE

Ask the oil man where the kerosene you burn comes from. If he says, "Pennsylvania," it's undiluted Pennsylvania kerosene—it will have a cleaner, brighter, whiter light that costs less. It does make a difference what oil pools supply the crude oil from which is distilled the kerosene you burn. Waverly or "All Pennsylvania" oil is odorless, smokeless and safer, as well as most economical.

Suit Coats Very Long or Very Short

The smart New York woman wears a suit whose jacket is either very short or very long. The box coat is favored by the younger set since the straight boyish lines are especially becoming to slim youth. Older women prefer the long suit coat with straight, dignified lines.

Leopard Skin Shoes.

Shoes made of python and lizard skins, which are now popular among women of wealth and fashion, are exceedingly costly. One reason is that to make a pair of lizard shoes—with straps—requires a vast amount of labor, since it is often necessary to examine from forty to fifty skins in order to get two which will match up well.

Where Eve Got Her Name.

A London music hall monologist clears up some Bible history thus: "Adam was so called because he didn't care his name's sake what became of him and he christened her Eve when she arrived because she brought his days of happiness to a close."—Succor.

The Right Spirit.

When I am in the dentist's chair I do not raise a fuss, but thank my lucky stars I'm not a hippopotamus. When baggage men destroy my trunk I do not rave and rant, but mentally declare I'm glad I'm not an elephant. And wearing new shoes, stiff and tight, which painfully impede, I smile and think how nice it is I'm not a hippopotamus. —Boston Transcript.

Sorry for Jeremiah.

A clergyman wrote a comment on the "Lamentations of Jeremiah" and said it was a blessing for his judgment upon it. The bishop, after he had read it, sent it back with this note: "There is but one thing I regret about this work—namely, that Jeremiah is not living now to compose a fresh set of lamentations on your comment." —Boston Transcript.

Merely a Stone.

The supposed skull of the Tertiary period found in Patagonia some time ago is merely a curiously shaped stone and of no scientific value, according to a committee of eminent scientists of the Buenos Aires and Laplatas museums of natural history, which has carefully examined it. At the time of its discovery great interest was excited because it was supposed to be the oldest trace of mankind in existence.

Character.
Real greatness has nothing to do with a man's appearance. It does not lie in the magnitude of his outward agency, or in the extent of the benefits he produces. Grandeur of character lies wholly in the force of the soul, that is the force of thought, moral principle and love.—William Ellery Channing.

San Francisco Vigilantes.
The Vigilantes were a volunteer committee of citizens who organized in San Francisco in 1851 to combat undesirable conditions which existed in California following the gold rush of 1849. They kept out summary justice and lawlessness.

Arrest Spanish Crooks.
The men working the "Spanish" crooks' confidence game have been given and arrested by the police. The police have carefully kept files of names and traces of persons from whom information has been obtained. Employees of "arrested" crooks were apprehended among others.

First Auto in France.
First practical mobile driven by internal force was that of a French man and now is one of the most treasured exhibits in the Paris Museum of Arts and Crafts.

Formation of Coal.
The general theory regarding the formation of coal is that it results from the decomposition of vegetation in swamps under tremendous pressure at a high temperature. The first state is peat; second, lignite; third, bituminous; fourth, anthracite, and the final state is graphite.

Fragory.
The first acute shock of married life comes when a bride discovers that her husband prefers corned beef and cabbage to those delightful little chafing-dish concoctions.—Philadelphia Record.

Virginian's Affix.
The story is told of a Virginian who stayed out until two o'clock in the morning. His wife objected. He said he wasn't out any late as she thought he was. She declared she had heard the clock strike. "What?" said the Virginian. "You'll take the word of a Yankee clock before mine?"

Largest Death.
Believed to be one of the largest instruments of its kind in the world, a coffin was recently used in a picture theater to imitate the day of cannon.
